Press Club: No reporters, just fine wines

Press Club: No reporters, just fine wines

People have discovered the Press Club in a big way. Since opening in September 2008, it's been packed on weekend nights with not only the after-work crowd, but later at night with singles who like its contempo vibe. Calling itself an "urban tasting room," it's comfortably and uniquely at the halfway point between a wine bar (too sedate) and a nightclub (too rowdy).
